

TYCOON DOG

FACT SHEET

Tycoon Dog is a NJ/NYC-based band that makes fun, family-friendly music touching on rock, blues, reggae, funk, soul, pop, hillbilly country and other vibes.

Featuring musicians Scott Bailey (vocals & guitar), Deb Craft & Alisa B. Anderson (vocals & percussion), Joe Piteo (drums), Nate Stevens (bass), Ken Sidotti (keyboards), and Sean Harkness (lead guitar), Tycoon Dog has earned excellent press and radio play in numerous markets (see below) and has years of experience pleasing crowds of nearly every age and description.

After performing hundreds of shows in the northeast, mid-Atlantic and mid-western states, and sharing stages with many of the best classic and newer bands in the roots/rock/improv tradition (including Dark Star Orchestra, David Nelson, The Byrds, Max Creek, Gordon Stone, members of Steely Dan and many more), Tycoon Dog now performs 15-25 free outdoor concerts each year in the NJ/NYC area.

MEDIA HIGHLIGHTS:

"Extremely interesting...intelligent, thought-provoking lyrics...infectious grooves...punchy rhythms and flickering guitar leads...well worth investigating."

RELIX magazine

"Takes a classic rock sensibility and fuses it with modern day hooks and grooves...instrumentally the band is economical and precise, although it still manages to infuse the songs with intricate instrumental embellishments...spunky rock (with) alluring melody." RELIX magazine

"Bound to make a few ears perk up...Bailey's voice (is) effective and distinct...as is his thoughtful lyricism...hook-laden...punctuated by distinctive breaks...you will find something familiar and pleasing in Tycoon Dog - something that may resemble your emotions and moods - and you may catch yourself singing it in the hallway." Paul Pearson, Jambands.com

"Infuses playful rock with melodic improvisation and a serious set of bone-digging grooves...boasting smart lyricism, dynamic vocals, and a talented guitarist with a strong southern pedigree, Tycoon Dog stands out..." Rob Hillard, Jambands.com
